ANCIENT PERSIA

GOLD TREASURES FROM THE GIBBS COLLECTION

The recent millennia celebrations at Persepolis emphasized the great antiquity of the Persian civilization, going back more than 5000 years. Towards the later period of the Persian empire when her armies had defeated the Greeks and dominated large parts of Europe, the quality of Persian goldsmithing also reached unheard of zeniths.

Gold was always considered a royal metal; use of gold objects was restricted to the palace, the temple and the households of the privileged and mighty. During the third, second and early first millennium, a small number of ritual objects were created by the goldsmiths of Persia and Mesopotamia by a method called the "lost wax method", a slow, painstaking process of casting and then refining by hand the gold objects.

When the first of the gold objects of this nature appeared on the European art market, they were met with surprise and in some cases open hostility on the part of those who were unfamiliar with the majority of these delicate gold objects coming from the vicinity of the Royal Capitals of Persepolis and Susa, and there can be no doubt about their provenance nor their authenticity, even though their discovery is of comparatively recent origin.

Gibbs realized in his research that these gold objects were used in trading as there weren't any coins at this period. This is the first consignment from the Gibb's collection of his gold rarities.

GENERAL COINAGE

- 388 1c. 1840. 1845. 1852. 1859. 1893; 3c 1865; 5c 1867 no rays 10c 1916 S.; 25 c 1854 w. arr.; 1915 D; 1926; 1930 S(2) 50 c 1906 S; 1929 S. 1949 S; 1922 mostly, VG-VF. 18 pcs. ($50.-60.)
- 389 Stdg. liberty ½$ of the thirties and some forties also mintmarks (12) VG; Franklin (10) fine. includes 1948; 1948 D. Lot of 22 pcs. ($50.-60.)
- 390 Silver dollar 1884 S; 1887.0; 1889; 1898.0; 1904.0; 1921 D; 1921 S; VF/XF/AU ½ Dollar 1823, VF; 1937, VG; 1948, VF; Dime 1923 S. F. Nice lot 11 pcs. (—)

- 391 The unique 1942-S Jefferson Nickel. 5c 1942-S, nickel comp. with small mint-mark. From the Ken Frith coll. We quote from Mr. Frith's letter of Sept. 15, 1972. Once offered $2500. in 1967. In rarity it is probably one of the rarest U. S. coins. (—)

It was found in circulation in 1961. At that time, I specialized in collecting mint errors, so the coin was brought to my attention (although not a "mint error" in the normal sense). I checked the coin to the best of my ability and determined to my satisfaction that it was not a fabrication. I purchased the coin at that time.

The coin was then sent to Michael Kolman and his authenticator, Myron Zadowski confirmed my belief, that this was in fact a true mint strike of a 1942-S nickel, bearing a small "s" mint mark to the right of the dome, instead of over the dome; such as the 1941-S. Although no mint records confirm the striking of such a coin, it is known that the dies were shipped to San Francisco, but the order to hold off for silver content nickels were given and supposedly none were struck.

I then shipped the coin to Don Taxay, and he again confirmed what had previously been learned about the coin, that it was in fact a true mint strike. (It is listed in Scotts Catalog of Coins by Taxay—Unique—my collection.)

Several articles appeared in Coin World, Numismatic News, and other papers on the coin.

In 1964 Walter Breen wanted to see the nickel. I sent it to him. He ran many checks on it, including X-ray, etc. and confirmed again that it was a mint strike, with obverse 1942 die and muled with a 1941-S reverse die.

So in reality, we have a true, possibly unique, authentic mint strike, although records may not reveal it. As to rarity, price, etc., maybe the rarest coin in the U. S. series. With the only one reported, and it being an actual coin, rather than a die variation, relief variation, etc., I feel it should bring as much as any rarity ever brought.

Alaska

Fei, or Stone Money of Yap.

The illustration shows three large-size specimens, photographed on the island, with two natives.

- 392 Copper Tinnah or Ta"ow plate money shield of the smaller 2500 blanket type—no design—representing the wealth for the community. The coppers have the same function as banknotes of high denomination. It can always be sold for blankets or for slaves. A slave was worth about 50 trade blankets or 50c each as medium of exchange. So a shield like ours could easily represent 1250 dollars at the end of the century. The plates played large roles at social functions called POTLATCH where these were often given away. In Jan. 1971 a 48x24" Gibbs specimen sold for \$3000. See our May rarity sale lot 1127 for full page of history. 22 $\frac{3}{4}$ " high, 11 inches wide on top; 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ " on bottom. A small but exceedingly rare one. PHOTO (1,600.—2,000.)

Native stone money 6"x1" tapering to  $\frac{3}{8}$ " center hole  $\frac{3}{4}$ ". Perfect and Ex. rare.
($120.-140.)

A Japanese Catholic Priest named T. Kurosawa spent thirty years on the island of Yap. On his departure to Japan the island chief "Roupon" presented him with eight special small stone coins which were very old and very rare. These were made from stone quarried at the Alacabesan quarries on the Island of Pelew. The only place where this special stone is found.

The stone money we are selling is from Kurosawa.

TWO UNUSUAL MUSEUM RARITIES

YAP ISLAND

- 828 Yap Island. Stone coin, 5" Hole  $\frac{3}{8}$ -1" Raised Rim around hole. Very rare. The purchasing power of that stone remains, as valid as if it were leaning visably against the side of the owner's house, and represents wealth as potentially as the hoarded inactive gold of a miser of the middle Ages, or as our silver dollars stocked in the treasury at Washington, which we never see nor touch but trade with on the strength of a printed certificate that they are there. Used Photo of similar piece.

SANTA CRUZ

- 829 Vanikoro. Santa Cruz. Melanesia (near Solomon Island) Double Coil of the Most beautiful and largest feather money of the Honeybird. It took the natives several years to make this wonderful coil. The second we ever handled, more than twenty nine feet long. The exciting red color of the millions of feathers gathered, warrants a museum to own this rarity. Represents total wealth often more than a village chief could ever obtain. Quiggin pl. 9. as beautiful as ours calls it "sensational currency" 1800 overlapping scales, about 30 ft. long, wound in double spirals of 6 turns each to circular drums of bark 900 birds made this coil. In 1932 only 10 natives could make a coil, today none, as it doesn't pay. This coil was used either as a marriage payment or as a "fine for fornication" on Vanikoro. A good wife was worth as much as a small canoe or 10 coils. (Old coils) a new coil is worth 50x the value of an old one. Gibbs did never want to sell his coil as it was his highest priced item. See British Museum coll; Quiggin p. 135. Superb. PHOTO
